

The Geological Society of London:
East Midlands Regional Group

Petroleum Geoscience Research at Derby

With

Dr Dorothy Satterfield, Dr Martin Whitely and three MSc students

Tuesday 14th May 2013

We will begin by describing the Applied Petroleum Geoscience MSc Course at the University of Derby and then move on to outline areas of current geoscience research. Some specific examples will be provided through three short presentations by current MSc students who are approaching the conclusion of their 3-month independent research projects. Each of these projects are being undertaken in collaboration with oil companies and they address specific challenges that help to prepare the students for the world of work.

Refreshments available from 6:30pm in the Atrium
Talk starts at 7:00

Lecture Theatre OL1, Derby University Kedleston Road campus

-- All welcome --